

Finding Joy in the Little Things

At Chamberlin House, meaningful moments often happen in everyday ways.

Recently, Cody has been enjoying spending time outdoors at her home using a new patio set purchased last week. The sunny weather created the perfect opportunity to sit outside, relax, color, and enjoy some quiet time.

One of the best parts? The beautiful flowers on the table were planted by Cody herself, adding a personal touch and a little extra color to her outdoor space.

Creating opportunities for individuals to make choices about their environment, enjoy hobbies, and take pride in their homes is an important part of supporting quality of life. Sometimes independence looks like trying something new, and sometimes it looks like simply enjoying a peaceful afternoon outside.

Moments like these remind us that home is more than a place to live, it is a place to grow, express individuality, build routines, and create comfort.

We love seeing Cody enjoy her new outdoor space and Make it her own.

Wishing everyone a week filled with sunshine, fresh air, and a few simple joys. ❤️
