Back-to-School: Supporting the Families Who Support Others

As August arrives, our families begin preparing for a new school year. For parents, that often means shopping for backpacks, notebooks, pencils, lunch boxes, calculators, and all the other essentials that help children start the year ready to learn.

At Chamberlin House, we know that back-to-school shopping can add strain to a family's budget. That's why, in August, the CHI Market is adding school supplies to the CHI Market Place.

The CHI Market is a valuable resource for our employees, offering an abundance of food, household essentials, and personal care items each month. Whether it's pantry staples, cleaning supplies, toiletries, or other everyday necessities, the Market is here to help lighten the load during life's busy seasons.

This month, we're expanding that support by offering school supplies to help children start the school year! Thanks to the generosity of our employees, community partners, and donors, we're collecting backpacks, notebooks, pencils, crayons, calculators, lunch boxes, water bottles, gift cards, and more.

The CHI Market is about more than the items on the shelves. It's about our community and partners helping each other and coworkers supporting one another. Every donation is a reminder that our CHI family cares deeply about the people who dedicate their lives to caring for others.

If you're looking for a meaningful way to make a difference this August, we invite you to participate in our Back-to-School Drive. Your donation will help ensure that CHI families have the supplies they need for a successful start to the school year while allowing the CHI Market to continue providing food and household essentials throughout the year.

Together, we can help children begin the school year prepared, confident, and ready to learn.
