

The Scheler Guys Are Gearing Up for Fall!

With Fall officially starting tomorrow, the guys at Scheler are getting into the spirit of the season!

Over the summer, the garden at Scheler has been busy growing a cheerful little pumpkin patch. After plenty of sunshine, water, and care, the vines are now showing off their harvest—from one perfectly tiny pumpkin tucked beneath the leaves to a couple of impressive orange beauties ready for fall.

Melvin, Carson, and Danny enjoyed heading outside to check on the pumpkins and admire how much they had grown. Melvin got an up-close look at one of the pumpkins, while Carson joined him in celebrating the garden's success. Danny was also happy to pose beside the biggest pumpkin in the bunch—and it certainly looks ready to become the star of a fall display!

There is something special about watching a garden change with the seasons. A few seeds, some patient tending, and a little teamwork have turned into pumpkins the Scheler guys can be proud of.

Now comes the fun part: deciding what to do with their home-grown harvest! Whether the pumpkins become decorations, jack-o'-lanterns, or simply a reason to celebrate, one thing is certain—the Scheler guys are ready to welcome fall, one pumpkin at a time!
